Help for North Carolinians Who Need Alzheimer's or Dementia Care in an Adult Care Home Special Care Unit

Special Assistance Adult Care Home Special Care Unit Program

Do you or someone you know need the type of care provided in an adult care home special dementia unit and need help paying for this care? Read further about eligibility for the Special Assistance Adult Care Home Special Care Unit Program.

Can I get help paying my expenses at an adult care home?

The State/County Special Assistance for Adults Program helps pay for room and board for older adult or adults with disabilities who need to live or are currently in an adult care home but cannot afford it. The assistance checks are sent monthly to eligible individuals living in eligible licensed adult care facilities, as long as that facility is licensed by the NC Division of Health Service Regulation and follows anti-discrimination practices of the Civil Rights Act.

Am I eligible?

Individuals with low income are potentially eligible if they are age 65 or older, or if they are 18 or older and under 65 and are disabled according to Social Security disability standards; and

All applicants must:

- Need adult care home level of care in a Special Care Unit for Alzheimer's or related disorders, as verified by a doctor
- Be a U.S. citizen or qualified alien
- Meet income and asset eligibility requirements
- Be a resident of NC
- Meet all other Special Assistance eligibility requirements

NOTE: If you are eligible for the Special Assistance Adult Care Home Program, you are automatically eligible for Medicaid. Medicaid helps pay for medical expenses, prescription medications, and treatment. Medicaid also helps pay for personal care services which include assistance with activities of daily living, such as dressing and bathing.

What are the income and assets requirements?

Special Assistance for residents in a Special Care Unit for Alzheimer's or related disorders is available to applicants with a monthly income of $1,560.50 or less and who have savings and assets worth less than $2,000. When you apply for Special Assistance you will be assigned a DSS caseworker who will determine your eligibility.

Examples of countable income include wages, Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI), other retirement income and Veteran's Administration income. Your DSS caseworker can explain how income is budgeted for Special Assistance Adult Care Home eligibility.

Examples of assets that are counted are property, cash, savings, checking accounts, stocks, bonds, annuities, some IRAs, and the cash value of life insurance policies. Some assets that are not counted are personal belongings, life insurance, irrevocable burial plans, burial plots and burial insurance. One vehicle is excluded as a resource if it is the primary mode of transportation, and under certain conditions, a primary residence can be excluded. Your DSS caseworker can also explain how assets are verified and counted in the Special Assistance eligibility process.

How much will my Special Assistance check be?

The maximum Special Assistance payment an eligible individual can receive is tied to the maximum rate adult care homes can charge Special Assistance recipients for room and board. The maximum rate (set by the General Assembly) that adult care homes can charge an SA recipient for room and board in a Special Care Unit (SCU) for Alzheimer's or related disorders is currently $1,515.

The amount of an individual's check is determined by taking the maximum rate and subtracting the individual's total monthly countable income. A personal needs allowance of $46 is added to the maximum rate to allow an individual some spending money for clothes and other essentials each month.

$$\begin{array}{r} $1,515 \quad \text{Maximum SCU Rate} \\ + 46 \quad \text{Personal Needs Allowance} \\ = $1,561 \quad \text{Maintenance Amount} \\ - \text{subtract Net countable monthly income} \\ = \text{Monthly Special Assistance Payment Amount} \end{array}$$

Note: The maximum rates and income figures increase periodically. Please confirm the published rates with the county department of social services.
